

GRAMMAR

Thinking Tom says:

Similes can be used as a fronted adverbial to open sentences.

Can you find any examples in your reading book?

What do you think?

Is this always true?

GRAMMAR

Thinking Tom says:

Set 5

Generalisers can be used to exaggerate a statement.

'We _____ go camping.'

How many different generalisers can you find to complete this sentence?

What do you think?

Is this always true?

GRAMMAR

Thinking Tom says:

These words are examples of generalising terms.

usually sometimes always never often maybe

Convince Me!

Is this true?

Can you think of others?

GRAMMAR

Thinking Tom says:

'How do you catch a cloud and pin it down?'
is a metaphor and a rhetorical question.

Can you find other examples
where metaphors are also rhetorical questions?

What do you think?

Convince Me!

GRAMMAR

Thinking Tom says:

When William Shakespeare wrote the question "Shall I compare thee to a summer's day?" in sonnet 18, he didn't expect an answer.

What type of question is this?

What do you think?

Convince Me!

Answers:

1. Find examples in your reading books. A simile describes something like something else.
2. We ALWAYS go camping etc.
3. Find examples in your reading book. A metaphor describes something as something else.
4. A rhetorical question.

